

Guide for authors: Aegyptiaca. Journal of the History of Reception of Ancient Egypt

Please follow the guidelines given here when submitting or revising your article for publication. All submissions must be spell-checked, copy-edited and proof-read. Submitted texts must be consistent in terms of capitalisation, spelling, punctuation, abbreviations, references, headings etc.

The editors reserve the right to make editorial revisions in articles and reviews.

Articles must be submitted in English, German or French.

General

- Please submit all manuscripts for consideration by e-mail as a document formatted in “doc” or “docx”.

- Submitted articles should have between 5,000 and 10,000 words in length, including footnotes. Submissions that fall short of 5,000 words or exceed 10,000 words will only be accepted when approved by the editor beforehand.

- Formatting your file:

Please check to be sure that your file does not have visible editorial markups; that is, if you have edited your file with “track changes” or if you have made comments, be sure to remove those markings before submitting your file.

Please do not “lock” your file.

- Formatting your document:

Please use only footnotes and not endnotes. Footnotes should be numbered consecutively. In reviews of books, there should be no footnotes, all material being incorporated into the text.

Footnotes should be used for citation purposes only and should not contain any discussion that cannot be incorporated into the text of the article.

Punctuation should be included within quotation marks only if it is part of the quotation cited.

Long-format quotations should be free of external quotation marks and indented flush-left 1 cm.

Spelling, punctuation, use of decimals, and other conventions is accepted both UK and US standard (neue deutsche Rechtschreibung/ nouvelle orthographe française), as long as the text is consistent.

Images

- Authors are expected to obtain permission to reproduce any copyrighted materials (e.g. photographs) used in their articles. Please submit image files as 300-dpi TIFs. Supply a list of figures and/or tables, including a caption for each, accompanied by a source line and such acknowledgments as are required. If you are unable to submit TIFs, please contact the editor.
- Figures and/or tables should only be indicated with textual placeholders in the manuscript.

Quotations in foreign languages

- Single words or short phrases, where essential to the argument, may be left in the original language; all quotations should appear in the body of the text in English (in German for German articles/ French for French articles).
- The text in its original language should appear in the footnotes whenever practical.
- In cases where standard scholarly translations of quoted texts are available, scholars may rely upon them for both text and footnotes according to the professional standards of their fields of specialization. If such editions are not widely and readily available, and the author has not provided the original text in the footnotes, the author must provide the original texts in an appendix for the reviewers' use.
- If an article contains extensive blocks of special characters in a non-Latin alphabet, authors need to submit the complete blocks as image files, not in text format.

Citations

- Aegyptiaca generally follows the current edition of The Chicago Manual of Style, an abbreviated version can be found here: http://www.chicagomanualofstyle.org/tools\_citationguide.html. There is one adjustment to The Chicago Manual of Style: Commas and periods closing citations should be placed behind the quotation mark and not inside. E.g.:
Joshua I. Weinstein, "The Market in Plato's Republic", Classical Philology 104 (2009): 440.

Weinstein, “Plato’s Republic”, 452–53.

Weinstein, Joshua I. “The Market in Plato’s Republic”. Classical Philology 104 (2009): 439–58.

- The published works of many authors have standard critical or scholarly editions, and some have similarly standard English translations. For any author or text treated or discussed in a substantial manner, please use these editions when they exist. If you quote a translation in the body of the article, the reference should include a citation to that passage in the original-language edition as well. If there is no English translation and the translation in the body of the article is yours, it is preferable to quote in your footnotes the text in the original as well as providing for reference.

Classical references

- The edition, as well as credit for translation, must be specified the first time a work is cited. You should use standard scholarly editions and translations when they exist for the work in question unless your argument requires otherwise.
- References to information supplied by a modern editor must include page numbers.
- References to the classical text must include the standard identification numbers for that text, such as book and chapter numbers or Stephanus numbers. Use Arabic numbers for all divisions.
  - Plato Republic 360E–361B.
  - Cicero De officiis 1.133.
  - Standard abbreviations may be used.

Copyright, permissions and Open-Access Policy

- It is the author’s responsibility to obtain online permission to quote material from third-party sources and to cover any costs incurred in securing these rights. The editors should be alerted at the earliest opportunity as to any difficulty in securing these third-party rights.
- Authors retain copyright and grant the journal right of first publication with the work simultaneously licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution License that allows others to share the work with an acknowledgement of the work's authorship and initial publication in this journal.

- Authors are able to enter into separate, additional contractual arrangements for the non-exclusive distribution of the journal's published version of the work (e.g., post it to an institutional repository or publish it in a book), with an acknowledgement of its initial publication in this journal.
- Authors are permitted and encouraged to post their work online (e.g., in institutional repositories or on their website) prior to and during the submission process, as it can lead to productive exchanges, as well as earlier and greater citation of published work.
