Advice to users of the directory of ACCREDITED professionals

Those seeking to make use of the services of an accredited professional of the institute may wish to take into consideration the following:

- 1 Although every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy of the information contained within this Yearbook and directory, neither the Chartered Institute for Archaeologists nor the publisher shall be liable for any errors or omissions.
- 2 The institute cannot accept responsibility for the acts or omissions of any accredited professional or Registered Organisation, and accordingly the institute shall not be liable for any loss or damage or other matter arising from the employment or engagement of any such individual or Registered Organisation.
- 3 Provisions exist for the investigation of an allegation of misconduct against an accredited professional of ClfA, or a complaint against a ClfA Registered Organisation. Further information can be found on the ClfA website (www.archaeologists.net/regulation/complaints).
- 4 The institute is unable to express opinions about the reputation, competence or quality of work carried out by any organisation which is not ClfA-registered.

Index of ACCREDITED professionals alphabetically by surname

The list includes all accredited professionals of the institute (MCIfA, ACIfA and PCIfA) who have given us permission to include their name in this directory.

These accredited professionals have had their technical competence and their ethical suitability assessed by ClfA's validation committee. They also abide by the institute's Code of conduct.

In addition to the accredited professionals listed, ClfA has a number of non-accredited Students and Affiliates who can be viewed as supporters of the institute. They have not been assessed and do not sign up to the Code but are encouraged to work towards it. The non-accredited members are not listed in this index.

The format of personal entries is as follows: surname, title, forename/initials, qualifications, membership postnominal category, membership number (in brackets), member since year, contact address, telephone number, email address, unless specified otherwise.

Please contact ClfA at admin@archaeologists.net if there are any errors or omissions in the following entries. It would be extremely helpful if all members would check and make any changes to their details by logging on to the website.
