Professional archaeology: a guide for clients

Buildings archaeology and development

This guide is for anyone who needs to commission archaeology. It explains what you need to do and why you need a professional archaeologist to help you through the process. It also provides some recent case studies as examples. This guide will help you increase the benefits from your archaeological work and avoid some of the possible hazards.

Involving professional archaeologists early in your project will help you

- plan the archaeological elements of your project to add value
- assess the timetable and resource requirements
- ensure you have the right skills in place to interpret and fulfil your obligations

You can find a copy of this guide, along with further information and additional case studies, on CIfA's website at www.archaeologists.net.
